Quicksilver Propeller Repair Stations

USE ONLY Factory-Authorized "Quicksilver Propeller Repair Stations" For Quicksilver Propeller Repairs!

We have been advised that, from time-to-time, some dealers are sending Quicksilver Propellers to "back-yard cut-rate" propeller repair shops. We wish to caution that anyone who might subscribe to this "false economy" will arouse the wrath of his customers and jeopardize future customer relationship.

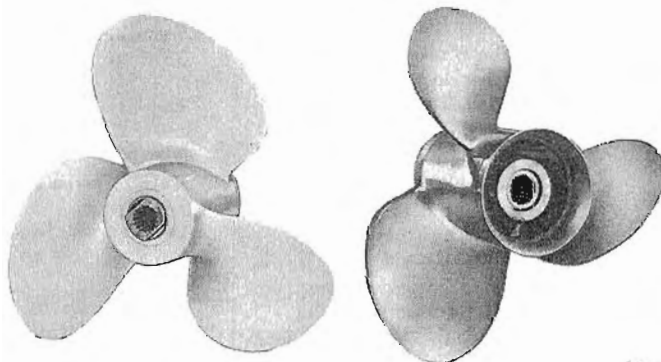

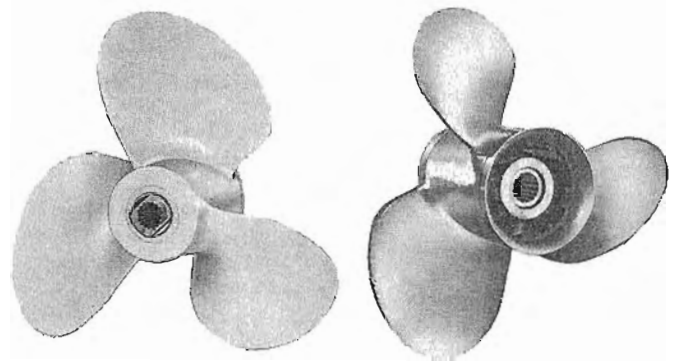

"Cut-rate" repairs necessarily "cut the corner" of factory-recommended procedures and precision repairing and, thereby, deliver a supposedly finished propeller that is, briefly, inadequate.

Keep the confidence of your customers! Factory-Authorized Quicksilver Propeller Repair Stations have been set up to give the lowest repair prices possible in exchange for the highest quality and superb precision workmanship.

Authorized stations -- and they alone -- have the original equipment, designed and manufactured by the Kiekhaefer Corporation, and have the genuine replacement Flo-Torq clutches. No one else can purchase this equipment!

If proper steps are not taken in the repairing of propellers, the customer cannot be assured of the like-new qualities to which he is entitled. At Authorized Quicksilver Propeller Repair Stations, propellers are -

1. Welded, if necessary, with a special welding procedure to assure color match and strength. Flo-Torq clutch must be removed during welding, or it will become damaged from heat. "Cut rate" shops usually overlook this vital point.

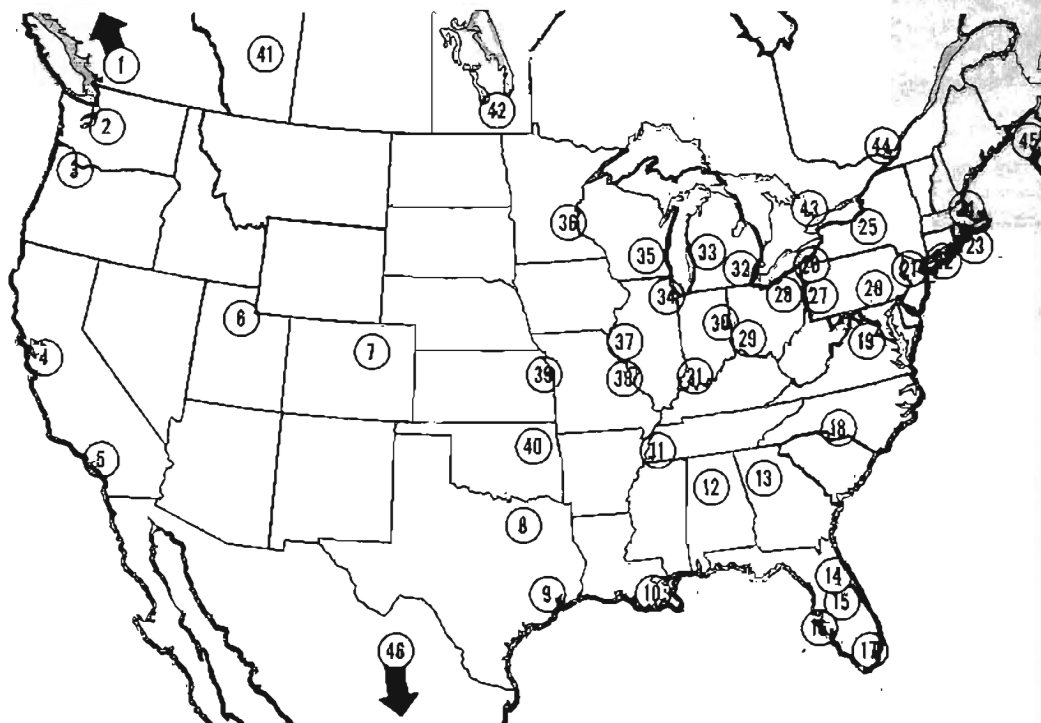

2. Repitched to original pitch, as marked on the propeller.
3. Blades are "trued", to be sure that each blade has the same contour.
4. Rebalanced, as any material added or removed in repair will cause propeller to become out-of-balance and result in severe vibration which may damage both boat and motor and result in expensive repairs.
5. Refinished to the new-style "satin-like" surface finish.
